

INTERVIEW WITH DIANE BRENTARI FOR REVISTA LINGUÍSTICA in Brazilian Sign Language

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NKQT2Abfklw>

Diane Brentari is the Mary K. Werkman Professor of Linguistics and Co-Director of the Center for Gesture, Sign and Language at the University of Chicago. She has published several books, such as Sign Language Phonology (Cambridge University Press, 2019) and Shaping Phonology (2018). Her research focuses on the role of modality in language, sign language phonology, how sign languages develop through historical time, and sign language typology.

Anderson Almeida da Silva (UFDPAR)

Loise Soares de Azevedo (UFRJ)

Marília Uchôa Cavalcanti Lott de Moraes Costa (UFRJ)